

A short reflection on today's Gospel Mark 1:14-20

John's work is done; Jesus' work has begun and, significantly, his message echoes the message of John: 'Repent and believe the Good News.'

John has carried out his ministry of repentance and salvation far from any seat of earthly power, choosing instead the wilderness as his pulpit, locusts and wild honey as his staple diet, animal skins to cover his nakedness. He is 'the thing itself', 'unaccommodated man'.

Today's Gospel witnesses Jesus gathering about him his first disciples. He doesn't seek them out among the rich and powerful, nor among the sophisticated and highly educated; instead, he seeks out ordinary men, fishermen, men who work hard to earn a living. The word 'respect' means 'to look again' and this second look is deemed to see beyond the superficial first look to the less visible truth of a person. Jesus always looked again. He always saw the truth which lies in the human heart. Here he sees the purity of heart of these simple fishermen. He sees their true worth, and their true worth has nothing to do with earthly power or sophistication. He recognises their truth, and they recognise his truth.

Jesus, may we always take the time and effort to 'look again' and seek the true worth of those around us rather than indulge in superficial judgements.

National Year of Prayer for Vocations to the Diocesan Priesthood - We pray for an increase in vocations to the priesthood in our own diocese, for all those who, like Simon and Andrew, hear Jesus say, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men and women."

Exploring Poetry with Mary Murphy continues Fridays at 11.00am in the Cathedral Hall. You are most welcome to join via the online platform or in person.

Children's Liturgy continues at 11.00am Mass on Sundays and is open to all children in Primaries 1 to 4. It involves proclaiming the Gospel in an accessible way to the Children, reflecting on its meaning and responding in prayer with an activity related to the Gospel story.

2024 is Lepra's Centenary Year. Leprosy is a disease that affects the nerve endings in the hands and feet and can affect the blink reflex of the eyelids. If not treated early enough it can cause life changing disabilities and even blindness, as well as moderate to severe depression and anxiety due to the prejudice and discrimination associated with the disease. Today 600 people will be diagnosed with leprosy, more than 50 will be children. It is curable - for 100 years Lepra's research has led to improved healthcare programmes and systems, as well as better detection, treatment, and support. To learn more about Lepra's work please visit www.lepra.org.uk or contact lauricej@lepra.org.uk.
